Dear School Principals/Superintendents:

I am writing to make you aware of our push toward educating youth about the current DRUG CRISIS in our state. New Beginnings is now offering updated programs for young people at risk, as well as their families and teachers. We can provide meetings with your kids in recovery, parents of addicts, professional development seminars for your faculty members, sports nights for your athletes and parents, 'chemical nights', classroom talks in your Health classes, as well as all school assemblies and parent nights.

We receive outstanding feedback from schools we have visited, and many students have received individual counseling, family interventions and referrals to rehab clinics resulting from our school visits. I bring kids in recovery with me to tell of their experiences with addictions and the hard road back as well as the damage done to family, work and education. New Beginnings frequently conducts TV interviews on local cable stations, Fox25 News and radio. Please consider having New Beginnings visit your school for all school assemblies, classroom education, or any of the other offerings listed in this letter. I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

William P. Phillips
