As educators, we have been given the SEI tool belt. This workshop will take SEI to another level. After learning about Response to Intervention (RTI) and how to build our instructional toolbox, we review SEI strategies available to teachers and administrators and create a system of RTI for our EL students.

Participants will:

- Identify the basics of RTI and Multi-Tiered Systems of Support (MTSS) as systems to build instruction.
- Review ACCESS information and WIDA materials to build a foundation of instructional strategies.
- Determine SEI instructional strategies and data within the RTI/MTSS systems.
- Build personal systems of RTI for their EL students' foundation of instructional strategies.

Laurie Sullivan has been a K to 12 teacher, school administrator, instructional coach and education consultant. She has been an SEI instructor and worked with over 500 teachers and administrators throughout the Commonwealth. Laurie holds a B.S.Ed. from West Chester State University, a master's degree in Curriculum and Instruction and a Doctorate in Educational Administration from Boston College. Her expertise includes SEI, curriculum mapping and design, online/hybrid design, and instruction as well as RTI and UDL development. Laurie is known for her pragmatic approaches and being a "teacher's teacher" and her enthusiastic delivery.
